UUFLG

"Blue States and Basic Goodness" Sun., 3/11, 10:30a
Common wisdom has long held that if a person is punished, they will behave in kinder or more social ways. But new research and schools of thought show us that the opposite is true: When our nervous systems are able to relax, we are innately kind and generous beings. Join Maggie Truelove, who is a meditation instructor, practitioner of Organic Intelligence, and longtime massage therapist, as she leads us in experiential practices and discussion to uncover this "Basic Goodness" living in us all.

Save the Date! UUFLG Day in the Redwoods

This event is planned for Saturday, April 14, at Henry Cowell State Park, near Felton. Registration for the Apr. 14 "free day" will begin March 12. For a free pass, go to FreeRedwoodsDays.org. The park is open from sunrise to sunset and includes an accessible trail, the Redwood Grove Loop Trail. An accessible visitor center and store are open 10am to 4pm. Look for details in the April newsletter.
